ABOUT ILSA

The International Law Students Association (ILSA) is a non-profit organization of students and lawyers, formed to promote international law by providing students and lawyers with the requisite opportunities to explore the international legal arena.

The ILSA is the home of the Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition; the largest moot court competition in the world, hosting over 700 law schools across 100 countries. Apart from this, the ILSA's activities span from academic conferences and discussions to publications and academic resources.

The ILSA aims to educate students and lawyers around the world in the principles and purposes of international law, encourage communication from different parts of the globe to promote international understanding, contribution to legal education, provide opportunities and assistance to law students and lawyers as well as engage in other activities related to the development and promotion of international law, study and practice generally.

ABOUT SLS ILSA

School of Legal Studies (SLS) is one of the oldest law schools in India. Initially a part of Kerala University in 1962, SLS joined the Cochin University family in the year 1971.

SLS has made valuable contributions to the study and research of law, offering LL.B, LL.M and PhD programs.

In the spirit of exploring and furthering legal research, SLS has accommodated various organizations and clubs under its wing, including the Justice V.R Krishna Iyer Chair on Human Rights, Cochin University Legal Aid Clinic (CULAC), Cochin University Human Rights Association (CUHRA) and UGC SAP on Corporate Governance, to name a few.

In its latest endeavour, the School of Legal Studies has introduced a chapter of the International Law Students Association, for the promotion and advocacy of international law, study and research.

In keeping the true spirit of the ILSA, the SLS Chapter of ILSA introduces the Research Colloquium on Public International Law.

ABOUT THE RESEARCH COLLOQUIUM

JG Starke defines International Law as 'that body of law which is composed, for its greater part, of the principles and rules of conduct which states feel themselves bound to observe, and therefore, do commonly observe in their relations with each other'. Although there is no universally accepted singular definition for International Law, we may explain to laymen that it is a set of norms or a body of law aimed at regulating the interactions between subjects of international law that participate in international relations.

International Law can be broadly divided into three; Public International Law, Private International Law and Supranational Law.

Public International Law concerns itself with the governance of international relations between States, international organizations, non-state entities and individuals. It is also referred to as 'the Law of Nations'. Private International Law, on the other hand, deals with the interactions of private entities or persons in the international domain, i.e., the Conflict of Laws.

International relations are absolutely necessary in the exigencies of the modern world, and for this very reason, the importance of the study and research of Public International Law ought to be stressed. Although Public International Law is a subject taught in every law school in India, the depths of this vast subject cannot be reasonably explored with the current syllabus framework.

Thus, the ILSA Chapter of the School of Legal Studies, through this Research Colloquium, intends to dive deep into the various facets of Public International Law and its contemporary developments through spirited discussions, interactions and research opportunities.
